YEAR OF SACRAMENTS • ONE WORD AT A TIME

Entrust

As we gather around the bedside of our dying loved ones, we entrust them to the Lord. We can do no more. At some point, although medicine can offer some comfort, it can no longer keep them alive. We face within ourselves and in our loved ones the poverty and dependence that has always marked our lives, even when we have not been conscious of it.

Now, we entrust them to God, to the saints, and to the angels. And when we do so, we acknowledge that we belong to a great communion of holy men and women and of spirits who serve the living God. What seems to be the most solitary, the loneliest moment of our lives, when we are dying, is rather a time of communion and connection. The whole Church in heaven and on earth gathers. The whole Church in this moment of entrustment is our great sacrament of communion in the Lord.

GET READY

The Letters of Paul to the Thessalonians are among his earliest writings, and are driven by his belief and the belief of the entire early Christian community that the return of Christ was imminent. Therefore, to devote time or attention to anything else was foolish.

As time progressed, this fervor receded a bit. Today we may wonder, when we hear these readings about the coming end-times, if we should take them to heart. What should we do when we hear that the day of the Lord will come upon us “like a thief at night”? (1 Thessalonians 5:2) Does this mean we are to stop our long-range goal-setting, get rid of our yearly calendars and planners, or stop putting money in the college education fund? Of course not. What it does mean is that we need to change our lives, living like children of the light and illuminating the world around us with the light of the gospel. Then, on that day, when the details of our daily living become unimportant, we will be ready to find our peace and security in Christ Jesus.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

All Christians in both East and West embraced the care of the sick as essential to church life. In the West, the importance of the visit of the priest is stressed, while in the East, the sick person is brought to the church for a full Liturgy of the Word. Some, such as the Armenians, even call it the “Ritual of the Lamp,” since the oil is poured out of the lamp by which the Word is read. This may be why Eastern Christians sometimes anoint the sick with this oil, since the trip to church might kill them.

Our tradition in the West also unfolded in monasteries, where it was possible for infirm monks to be attended with a full and beautifully consoling liturgy. In 950 the monks of St. Alban’s Abbey in Mainz produced a ceremonial book that was instantly a pastoral hit everywhere. There were two lengthy rituals for the sick, one an extended vigil, and the other a liturgy of anointing that included Communion under both species. While this ritual was a house formula for monks, it is easy to see how monks who had the care of parishes desired to serve their parishioners in a similar way. The first form included the chanting of penitential psalms, and the second form required a confession beforehand. Both forms included a laying on of hands, which everyone understood as being an essential part of penance.

A Prayer for Our New Bishop

Heavenly Father, from age to age you call forth and anoint shepherds to tend your flock.
We thank you for the pastoral leadership of Cardinal Francis George these past years and ask you to bless and heal him.

We celebrate your calling forth our new bishop,
Blase Joseph Cupich, to lead us forward in faith.

As we joyfully welcome him into our midst, pour forth the gifts from your Holy Spirit to strengthen him for his ministry in our church and the Archdiocese of Chicago.

Through his faithful response to your call, may he come to know the vibrant faith of, as well as the love and support of the clergy, religious and lay people of the Archdiocese.

United with our bishop in the mission of the Eternal Good Shepherd, we make this prayer through your son, Jesus Christ, who lives and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit, one God forever and ever. Amen.
